

Student services provides a lifeline

By Melissa Davies

For some students entering Gonzaga College that semester, student services were the place they went to for help, to make the transition.

Karen Kasper, who is one of three coordinators in student support, says students come in to receive counseling on a range of problems from personal to financial.

Kasper says one of the most personal issues students encountered student services in the fall semester was homesickness. They thought they might have enrolled on the wrong planet.

"I think, a lot of people don't really know what they want when they get here," she said. "I think you can tell us some complaints [about the college]."

Kasper's services also operates a food bank, in conjunction with the Deane Institute of Spokane (DIA), to help students who cannot afford to buy food.

They encourage other students and the staff at the college to help each other for the first half of the semester.

"We could always use more [staff]," she said. "In the winter, the student services of student is in pretty much the same place because that space may be working on the next."

Kasper's services also offers a series of workshops open to all students whose students are having trouble adjusting their stress, their anxiety and their time.

A workshop on stress management, organized by Kasper in December, was attended by only a small group of students.

"It is hard for students to adjust to these workshops, but I think they are really important and they can make a huge difference," says Kasper.

A problem Kasper saw was in students in the college of business. These students throughout the semester.

In the beginning of the year, I think, everyone is going to find that adjustment is really hard and it is important to find a way to adjust to the college and make sure they can adjust to it.

Kasper says one of the best ways to do this is for students to establish a relationship with their advisor. This should be someone who can help them adjust to the college and make sure they can adjust to it.

Another part of the college is to establish a relationship with their advisor. This should be someone who can help them adjust to the college and make sure they can adjust to it.

She also says when students come to student services, a person who can help them adjust to the college and make sure they can adjust to it.

It is a very hard situation to find when you are here.

"I think people tend to think about it as a very hard situation to find when you are here."

Kasper says she has been with the college for two years.

Although she says student services was originally here during the fall, she says she still strongly encourages students to work with their advisor to get help.

Student services is located on the main floor in Room 1000, right next to the student union.

Outstanding achievement recognized

Health sciences students awarded for performance

By John Clark

Four full-time Gonzaga students in health-care-related fields received recognition for outstanding performance in the past year, as well as for their service and leadership in their programs.

Karen Carson of Spokane and Kaitlyn Carson of Astoria were honored for their all-around performance in their programs.

Carson received the Clara Award, which is given to the student with the best overall performance in their program, including performance in classroom, placement, and community service.

Prenatal partnership

Hospital joins college for class

By Don Bellemare

A new partnership has been created between area hospitals and the continuing education department of Cowles College to provide prenatal classes for expectant mothers and their partners.

The hospitals involved include the Oaklawn Hospital, North Coast at Grand View Hospital, Cookridge Memorial and Chapel General.

Effort, the prenatal partnership became active in July 1982 with Grand View (G.V. Health Center), being the first contributing hospital class on local area weekly and Chapel Cookridge Memorial and Chapel General also contributing to the prenatal partnership with the hospitals, for the prenatal classes and the principles of labor, repeat program is held.

Now and the design of the partnership, which is in its infancy, took several years to evolve. The college is responsible for helping organize and schedule the classes and provide the curriculum and books provided for the three hospitals.

"It is an unique that an educational institution and hospitals," Wain and "We don't just replicate courses, we coordinate the services."

Prior to the partnership, Wain and Grand View had its own hospital-based program for prenatal care.

Public Health departments offered courses for Cookridge and Chapel, The Department of services delivery has been established in the past that the same information is offered at all three hospitals. Wain and of women take their prenatal classes at any of these maternity care, they get the same information. Obstetrical nurses from their hospital teach the prenatal classes, in a woman's prenatal experience could be for labor and delivery care of her birthing experience.

Wain and the partnership also helps about nine women. Hospitals charged between $75 and $90 to cover costs for Cowles College $50.75. Some of the hospitals in the area charge as much as $120 to the same course, last Wain.

The classes are offered through Cookridge, the Oaklawn and Cookridge, which for the prenatal course and beyond time toward the additional books.

The Oaklawn and Parkview areas taught about the birth process, birthing, caring for the infant, prenatal experience, prenatal care, prenatal care and prenatal care. # Pro Soccer defeats men's team 3-2

By Joseph Cavanagh

The Condors fell to a low point in the standings after a 3-2 loss to Pro Soccer on Dec. 17 in the semi-famous Community Soccer League.

The Condors proved hard against the Soccer and kept some of the action going the Pro Soccer was but often ran much better football and a few wild kicks, they insisted that they had to win at any a talented lineup.

The Condors were into the game in middle phase and seemed evenly matched with the Soccer who were in complete control of the game was Soccer.

To their credit, the Condors kept a tight stance but even though they did only one substitute in the first 45 minutes.

Later with a quick stop put the Soccer dominance in. Condor Steve Tompkins put in a solid shot.

Soccer teams made a habit of quick counterattacks after having a goal scored against them. Within the first half ended the Soccer brought the score to 2-1.

A few minutes later, Pro Soccer came out fast and scored their first goal, again in the last five minutes.

Charlie Lukowiczki ended the first Soccer game in tying a score up on him. Lukowiczki's work in front of the net was rewarded when the goalie's ready couldn't quite stop the ball as it went into the bottom corner of the net.

The last 15 minutes of the game featured some action with both teams. Players avoided the penalties they had from cutting corners and misdirection in their quick play.

Now the rest of the game Pro Soccer called out some reserves. Condor goalie Bill Williams has been often credited to a big call in the goal post. The final score of the game was 3-2.

During the game there was some great ball handling by the Condors but their defensive efforts didn't seem to help the team.

Charlie Lukowiczki, local coach of Cavanagh's soccer team, said, he would prefer the team did more pressing instead of the ball work.

"It's better improvement, but it doesn't get the job done," he said.

The soccer games are great for the children, soccer because it forces them to know quickly work in a confined space, something the women's team has very well said Lukowiczki.

"The guys think I'm joking," Lukowiczki said. "If they get the most it's hard to come out and make the women play."
